

DSL vs Cable

The Basics

DSL transmits data across copper telephone lines.

Cable internet transmits data across a coaxial cable lines.

Speed

download speed:

1.5 Mbps - 100 Mbps

upload speed:

512 Kbps - 40 Mbps

download speed:

10 Mbps - 1 Gbps

upload speed:

3 Mbps - 100 Mbps

Availability

DSL is distance sensitive. Performance depends on the telephone provider's location.

Cable networks are readily available. Performance depends on a user's modem, network and traffic load.

Contact Cable ONE Business to learn more about the options available to your business.